

Environmental Policy

Dimensions Clothing Ltd. is committed to produce quality corporate wear and related products whilst ensuring the highest level of customer service.

The company recognises that it's day-to-day operations impact on the environment in a number of ways. Dimensions wishes to minimise the potential harmful effects of such action, wherever and whenever this is practical, by implementing this environmental framework.

Dimensions is committed to achieving environmental best practice throughout its business by:

- Ensuring our activities are safe for our employees, sub-contractors, customers and others who come into contact with our work.
- Complying with legal and other requirements.
- Monitoring purchasing activities and internal operations including energy and transport to ensure best use of natural resources and minimum environmental impact.
- Minimising the waste produced in all parts of our business.
- Seeking to integrate environmental considerations into future business decisions.
- Ensuring associates and sub-contractors understand and are accountable to these policy goals through communication and training.
- Prevention of pollution through external re-use and recycling by transferring materials offsite for reuse and recycling.
- Achieving continual improvement through the development of our environmental performance, evaluation procedures and associated indicators, objectives and targets.

All staff will receive the necessary instruction and training to enable them to understand the policy and the Environmental Management System and to contribute effectively to its operation.

This policy is available to the public on request.

Simon Hughes
Chief Executive